THE PARADISE OF MARBLE TROUT

Recreational fishing in the Friulian Dolomites and the Carnic Alps

CLEAR WATERS

Transparent torrents and Alpine lakes of glacial origin

WILD NATURE

A maze of rivers flowing in an untouched environment

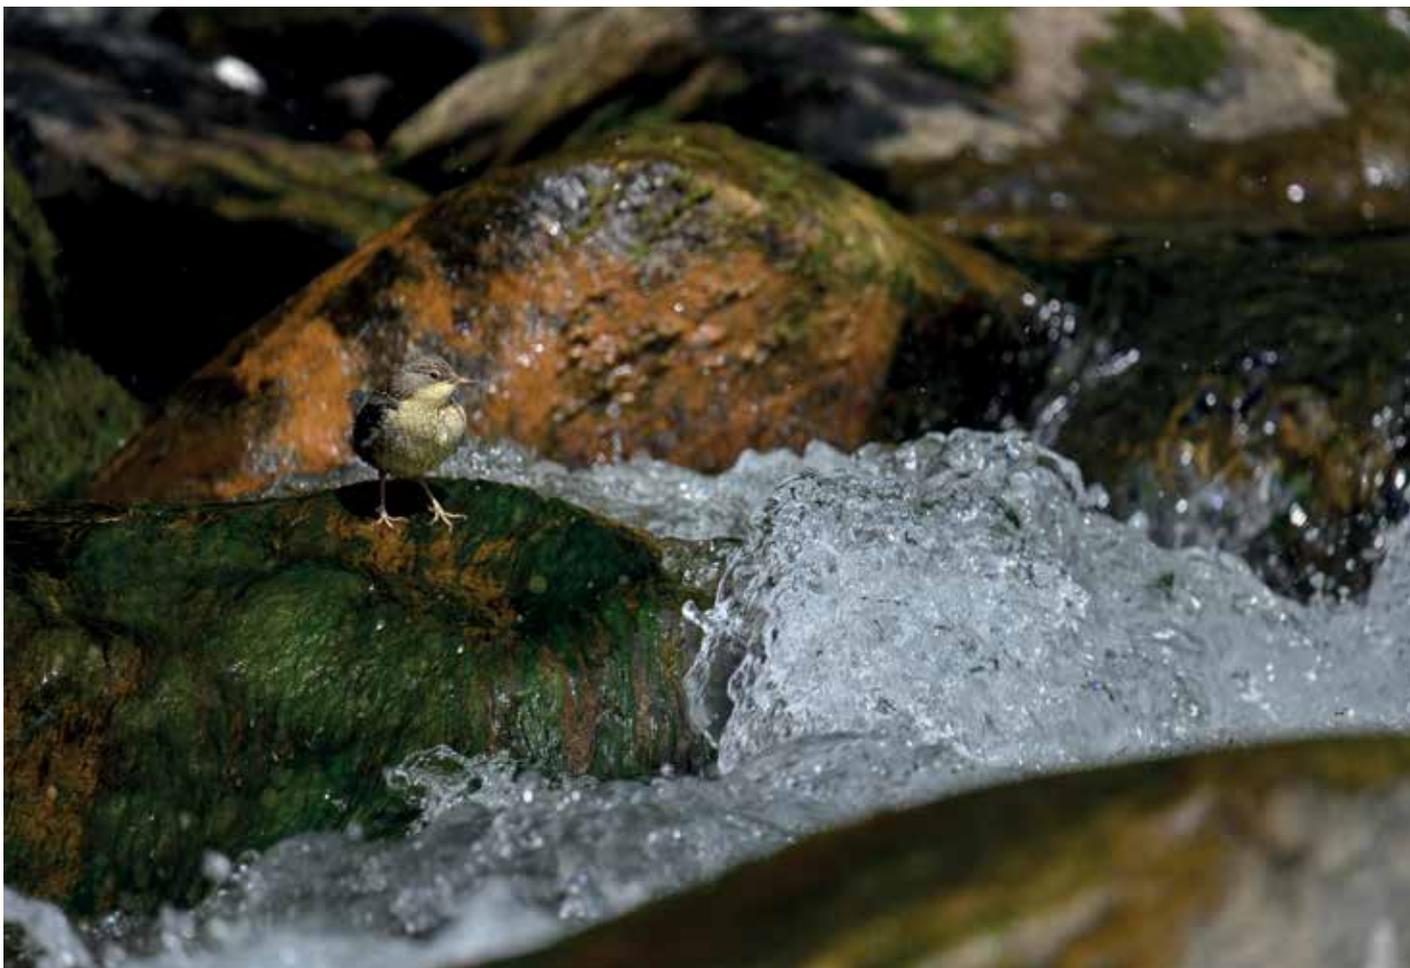

FISHING 9,000 KM

A territory with the most extensive river network in Italy

DESTINATION ▶ Individuals + Groups

Imagine the territory with the most extensive river network in Italy: an area of more than 9,000 kilometres that can be fished with one single permit, where there are no private waterways and where no one farms fish except for eggs or juvenile fry.

If you are imagining a maze of rivers flowing through wild and uncontaminated terrains, which gently give way to wide rivers at the bottom of the valleys and then to peaceful lowland resurgences where marble trout, brown trout, hybrids and wild grayling swim free to reproduce, you are simply thinking of the Dolomites and the Carnic Alps.

The Paradise of Marble Trout was created thanks to the collaboration of seven Municipalities that are linked by a joint territorial development project associated with recreational fishing.

The Friulian Dolomites, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, and the Carnic Alps, where gentle hills and majestic peaks invite you to experience nature in its purest form, are just two hours from Venice.

The Regional Fisheries Heritage Protection Agency (Ente Tutela Patrimonio Ittico - ETPI) is the main Regional Authority for the management of fish in all our waters. It performs its mission with the highest standards of respect for the delicate balance that regulates river ecosystems. For many years, ETPI has undertaken projects to safeguard and repopulate the river environment of Friuli Venezia Giulia through the introduction of eggs and juvenile fish, in particular marble trout (Salmo trutta marmoratus) and grayling (Thymallus aeliani), limiting the release of adult fish to a limited number of specific sites.

Following the challenges of the first years of this project, our rivers, which are not always easy to approach, now boast a population of wild fish with a strong majority of marble trout and the spawn of many native brown trout.

Here we still have Alpine streams where wild graylings breed in crystal clear waters, and where the deep blue colour blends with the green of century-old forests of wild and stunning beauty.

Imagine being free to chase wild fish surrounded by pure and untouched nature... your fishing holiday is here!

We introduce you to the seven Municipalities: Sappada, Forni Avoltri, Paularo, Arta Terme, Sauris, Forni di Sotto, Forni di Sopra.

SAPPADA

On the extreme border of Friuli Venezia Giulia

LOCATION AND HISTORY

Sappada is a charming village dating to the early Middle Ages. It lies on the border with the Veneto Region at 1,250 m. Nestled in the Dolomites, the village attracts visitors with the charm of its breathtaking natural surroundings and the joyful liveliness of its traditions. The origins can be traced to approximately the year 1000. According to an old legend, it was founded by some families from the village of Villgraten in Tyrol, who fled from the tyranny of the Counts of Heinfels. An ancient dialect of the German language (“Plodn”) is still spoken in Sappada to this day.

TRADITION

There are 15 hamlets in town (“beivilan” in the local dialect) spread across the valley floor, each one a short distance from the next. The wooden houses have a unique rural architecture. They were built using the ancient technique of “blockbau” (logs stacked horizontally and interlocked by means of notches). The town has a rich history, with festivals and local traditions. It is home to many interesting tourist facilities and cultural points of interest: the Ethnographic Museum, the House of Agricultural Civilisation, and the Small Museum of the Great War.

EVENTS AND FOLKLORE

The Carnival (“Vosenòcht”), one of the most traditional events, involves typical wood-carved masks, which are masterpieces of local craftsmanship. The celebrations take place on 3 consecutive Sundays after the pagan festival.

THE SOURCES OF THE PIAVE RIVER

The river springs at the foot of Mount Peralba, 1,830 metres above sea level, in the northeastern corner of the Dolomites, between Cadore and Carnia, along the border between Veneto and Friuli Venezia Giulia.

Upstream, the Piave River is dominated by torrents, but later, before reaching the town and for almost its entire length, it becomes flat, with small pools and wide open clearings.

This is where the river bed is characterised by relatively coarse gravel, with many boulders and rocks of different sizes, which counteract the currents and create small bends. Before reaching the border with Veneto, the Piave River flows into a gorge called the Orrido dell'Acquatona.

Thanks to its natural flow, the Piave River is very popular with anglers who use artificial bait, and especially fly and spin fishing enthusiasts. With its clear and transparent waters, the river delivers powerful emotions.

THE ACCURACY OF CASTING ARTIFICIAL LURES FROM A DISTANCE

Because of its peculiar characteristics, the Piave River can challenge the angler's ability to cast accurately in certain spots.

To avoid alerting the fish to our presence, it is advisable to fish at a respectable distance.

The Piave River attracts anglers not only because of its large population of brown trout, which, due to the nature of its waters, can reach considerable sizes, but also because of its rich and fascinating natural environment.

The Piave River is the most Sacred of all the Rivers of the Nation.

The stretch running through the town of Sappada presents shallow waters and swift currents, interrupted by small pools and some long stretches of calmer waters: this is where trout are likely to be discovered, settling on the banks or under some vegetation, sheltered from the rays of the sun.

RECREATIONAL FISHING

The artificial lake of Ziegelhütte is located at 1,186 metres above sea level, very close to the Piave River. It is a beautiful green artificial pool on the banks of the Rio Storto stream. The lake is surrounded by the pine woods of the Digola Forest and the first ridges of Mount Col dei Mughi.

The site is equipped with fishing rods and bait available for hire. Permits are issued exclusively at the Baita al Laghetto facility.

LOCATION AND HISTORY

Forni Avoltri is located in the breathtaking setting of the Carnic Alps. It stands on the slopes of Mount Coglians (2,780 metres above sea level), the most elevated peak in the entire area, which includes most of the highest mountain groups in Friuli Venezia Giulia, geologically the oldest in Europe.

It is called the “town of water” because of the presence of several streams, lakes and an infinite number of springs.

NO KILL ZONES

People who cast their line into Lake Bordaglia can be sure not only of a good catch but also of an experience of total relaxation in contact with nature. The wealth of fish species, the purity of the water, the beauty and diversity of the landscape: the Degano Torrent is protected with a No Kill zone from the bridge of the State Road S.S. 355 to the bridge of Via Belluno in the town of Forni Avoltri. This guarantees a large number of spectacular fishing spots.

SPECIAL FISHING CONDITIONS

If you want to enjoy an unforgettable day fishing in the best spots, the Degano Torrent is particularly suitable for fishing marble trout, which are subject to restocking, and also for some wild brown trout. The best area is from the bridge on Via Belluno in the town of Forni Avoltri to the power station near the confluence with the Rio Fulin stream.

All types of fishing techniques can be practised here depending on the spot, from light and ultralight spin fishing to fly fishing and natural bait fishing.

THE CHIARSÒ TORRENT IN THE HAMLET OF PIEDIM

Also called “Darte” in the Friulian language, it is located in the But Valley, in the Alpine region of Carnia. The But Torrent springs from the southeastern slopes of Mount Coglians and, after a short distance, makes an abrupt turn to the south, flowing into the wide alluvial plain that was once Lake Moscardo. These waters reappear in full downstream in a basin, the ancient site of another lake.

Near the town of Arta Terme, the torrent cuts a narrow riverbed between the dolomite, sandstone and gypsum sedimentary rocks, which leads to an additional enrichment of sulphate ions in the waters of the Tagliamento River. The But Torrent then runs for seven kilometres to the Tolmezzo basin, where it merges with the Tagliamento River, forming a large alluvial fan.

SAURIS

In the heart of the Lumiei Valley

LOCATION AND HISTORY

Located in the mountain region of Carnia in the Lumiei Valley, its territory is home to an artificial lake, one of the largest in Friuli: Lake Sauris. An Alpine oasis where visitors can find peace, excellent food, traditions and open-air living, thanks to a rich calendar of outdoor activities. Nestled in the mountains on the border between Carnia and Cadore, this area embraces the flow of the seasons to the rhythm of nature, between the soft alpine pastures in summer, the fiery foliage of the trees in autumn, the snow on the typical houses and the colourful explosion of the meadows in spring.

TRADITION

In 2022, Sauris was included in the List of Best Tourism Villages by UNWTO 2022, a United Nations initiative that rewards destinations where tourism preserves local traditions and culture while safeguarding the environment and biodiversity.

EVENTS AND FOLKLORE

THE VALLEY OF CRYSTAL CLEAR WATERFALLS

The Poschiadea Torrent rushes down between Dolomite boulders, carving out natural pools of pure water, where trout roam in search of food. The riverbed is formed by the narrow channel that runs from Mount Chiarecons down to the Tagliamento River, with gravel and large boulders that forcefully cut through the fury of the water, creating waterfalls and bends of different sizes.

SPECIAL FISHING CONDITIONS

The most natural areas require some walking to reach, but the effort is well rewarded by the beauty of the habitat and the quality of the catches, as well as the pleasure of being able to fish all day long, even in the very hot season. Enjoy the cool waters of the Tagliamento River, from the stretches surrounding the hamlet of Acqua Pudia to its confluence with the Rio Marodia stream.

RECREATIONAL FISHING

Forni di Sotto offers anglers a multitude of streams and some alpine lakes, in a unique and enchanting setting, where brown trout and arctic char find their ideal habitat.

The best spots for fly fishing in the Tagliamento River are precisely in Forni di Sotto. Here, in the heart of the forest, an equipped area has been created for people who love this activity.

FISH RESTOCKING ZONES

The Rio Poschiadea stream, from its source to the hydroelectric power plant; and the Rio Sfuarz stream, from the ETPI fish farm to the confluence with the Tagliamento River.

Calendar

From 7 a.m. on the last Sunday in March to the last Sunday in September. Fishing under the No Kill system is permitted until October 15.

FORNI DI SOPRA

Studded with spires and pinnacles, a UNESCO World Heritage Site

LOCATION AND HISTORY

Framed by the splendid peaks of the Eastern Friulian Dolomites and located in the heart of a wide and sunny basin, Forni di Sopra is located in the eastern part of the Friulian Dolomites Natural Park, one of the largest and most picturesque in the Alps, and one of the richest in wildlife.

TRADITION

The houses are typically built in stone and wood, with staircases and balconies.

There are numerous churches in the hamlet of Cella, while the rural hamlet of Andrazza is known for its houses with adjoining barns and stables. The remains of the Sacuidic Castle can be seen here. The small rural museums housed in the oldest houses in the village are worth a visit: the 17th-century Ciasa dai Fornés and the 19th-century Casina di vic. Of particular interest are the murals on the walls of the houses, painted by the artist Marino Spadavecchia, which represent the life of the mountain communities of the past.

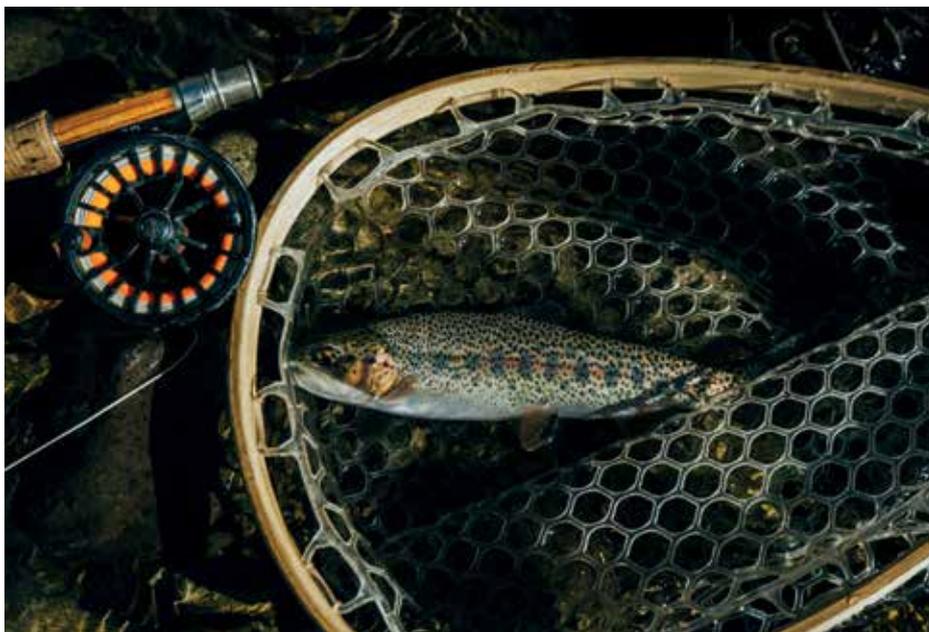

EVENTS AND FOLKLORE

The Spring Herb Festival - In June, one of the most popular festivals in the mountains of Friuli Venezia Giulia which is entirely devoted to wild herbs. The Mushroom Festival - In September, featuring guided walks with mycological experts and naturalistic tours to discover the flavours of the forest. A variety of sports competitions at altitude and along mountain trails, from the Trail of the Alpine Pastures to the Sky Trail Race of the Friulian Dolomites.

SHORES OF THE LAKE

THE TAGLIAMENTO RIVER

The source of the river is northwest of the village of Forni di Sopra (Udine). It is the last great river in central Europe that still flows freely. Its gravel bed can even be seen from satellites, creating a real gateway for migratory species.

The Tagliamento River flows for 178 kilometres from the Friulian Dolomites to the Adriatic Sea and its source is near the Mauria Pass. It is called the “King of Alpine Rivers” because of its high hydro-morphological quality and the uniqueness of its river ecosystem. It is an ecological corridor linking the Alpine region with the coastline of Friuli Venezia Giulia and Veneto.

THE SMALL LAKES OF VARMOST

The Small Lakes of Varmost are close to the arrival of the first section of the chairlift. These waters are managed by Pesport Dolomiti and are the ideal spot for recreational fishing.

A special restocking area with brook trout (Salvelinus fontinalis), a real treasure for experts and experienced anglers. Depending on the season and accessibility, visitors can enjoy fishing with both artificial and natural bait.

SPECIAL FISHING CONDITIONS

The Tagliamento River, from its source to the Enel power station in the Municipality of Forni di Sopra.

The Tolina Torrent, from its source to the confluence with the Tagliamento River, also in the Municipality of Forni di Sopra, which changes its characteristics and flow rate as it moves downstream, is considered a first-class watercourse for fishing salmonids.

RECREATIONAL FISHING

There are two picturesque lakes in the town park, fed by several springs. Recreational fishing is permitted in these pools.

The lakes are constantly restocked with rainbow trout (Oncorhynchus mykiss). What better place to spend a few peaceful days fishing, surrounded by pine forests and the backdrop of the Dolomite massifs?

THE REGULATION FOR RECREATIONAL FISHING

An activity in harmony with nature

ANGLERS ARE REQUIRED HAVE TO RESPECT FOR

The aquatic animals they come into contact with, avoiding causing these animals any unnecessary suffering either by catching, releasing or keeping them;

The surrounding environment, leaving no traces of their passage; this also means contributing to the removal of traces left by other people;

The natural balance of which they are an active participant, by not releasing species that are alien to our natural habitats;

The waters that give life to their fishing activities, reporting any offence and violation of the integrity of the aquatic environment to the designated Authorities;

The colleagues of today and tomorrow, strictly following the rules and recommendations of this booklet;

Private property, in strict compliance with the prohibitions of access and with the understanding that possession of a licence does not constitute an unconditional right of access to the property of others.

WARNINGS FOR FISHING ACTIVITIES

If you are too close to overhead power lines and accidentally touch them with your fishing rod, you risk being electrocuted. This is potentially life-threatening;

Never use fishing rods anywhere near power lines;

Never alter the natural balance of the surrounding environment in which you are fishing, in which you are an active participant: do not release species that are alien to our natural habitats;

Along the channels managed and operated by the Water Management and Reclamation Consortia, there are remote-controlled machines and/or equipment with automatic starting systems; it is forbidden to enter and travel through the areas adjacent to the buildings and installations managed by the Water Management and Reclamation Consortia;

Be aware that electrical lines are always under tension and connected to the power grid;

Anglers must keep a proper distance from the banks of the consortium channels, from water diversion works such as intakes and discharges of hydroelectric power stations, mills, and intakes for irrigation and fish-breeding use, whether freestanding or equipped by operating equipment.

MAP AND FISHING RULES

The Regional Fisheries Heritage Protection Agency has created APPesca.FVG, the application for recreational fishing enthusiasts, which allows you to view maps and keep up to date with fishing regulations, as well as pay fees and register your fishing days and catches.

INSTRUCTIONS

Fishing is permitted from the last Sunday in March to the last Sunday in September throughout the district, except for the possibility of fishing until October 15, but only in the NO KILL mode.

An exception is made for Lake Sauris, Lake Verzegnis and Lake Cavazzo, where fishing and the possibility of keeping salmonids is extended until October 31.

In the TRA sections, fishing and the possibility of keeping salmonids is permitted from the first Sunday in March to December 31.

The Regional Fisheries Heritage Protection Agency (ETPI) is the only authority in charge of the management of fish resources in the inland waters of Friuli Venezia Giulia.

Sport fishing is open to everyone. Fishermen without an FVG fishing licence can fish by paying the infra-annual fee.

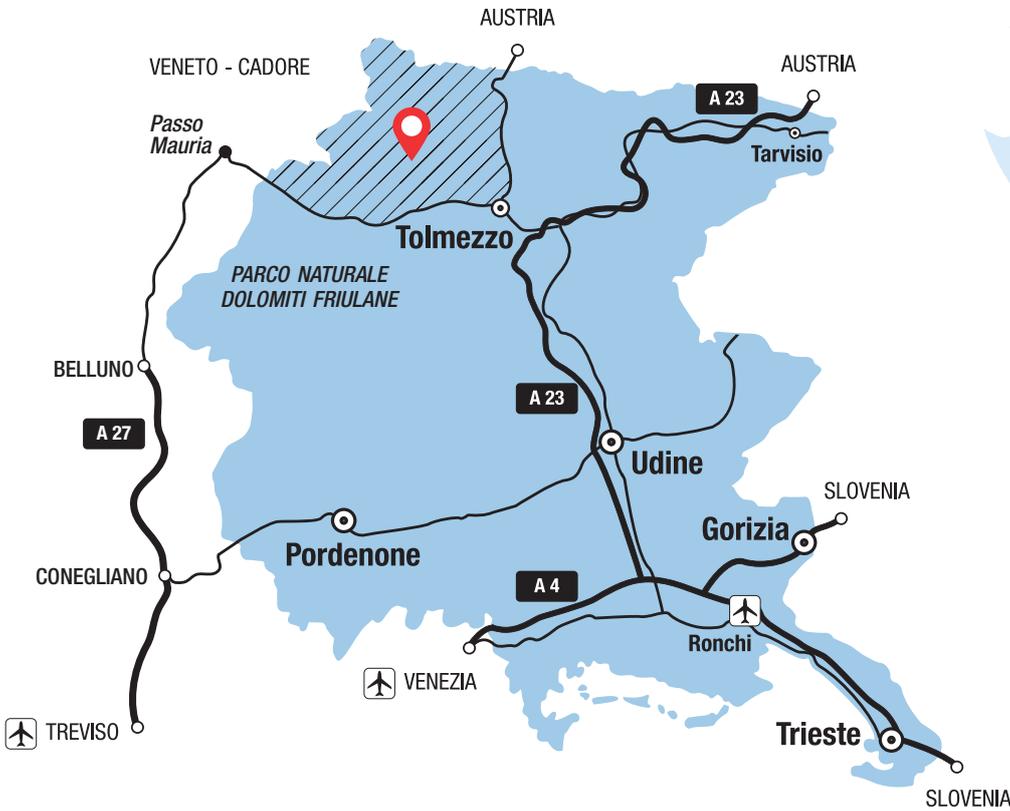

Anglers are required to consult the Recreational Fishing Calendar. When fishing, you must have your fishing licence (if applicable), proof of payment of the fee, the annual or semi-annual registration document (DRA/DRI) and an identity document with you at all times.

Please visit www.etpi.fvg.it for all the information required.
